PREFACE.

THE very liberal patronage which has been extended the Editor of the PHILADELPHIA DIRECTORY, from his commencement of the arduous undertaking, while it excites lively gratitude, and prompts to future diligence, incontestibly demonstrates the utility of the work.

As an attempt is now making, by the aid of a host of hawkers, to palm upon the publick a catch-penny production in the form of a Directory, and a malicious report having been industriously circulated, that the Publication of this work was discontinued, (in addition to more aggravated injuries the editor was not prepared to expect,) he feels it a duty he owes the publick and himself to state that the annual publication of his Directory shall be continued, and will appear as early in each succeeding year as possible.

As it has ever stood unequalled for copiousness, accuracy, and neatness of execution, he pledges unremitting diligence to render the subsequent editions acceptable to his fellow citizens. The present number, (incomparably the best ever published in this city,) comprises much useful information to the Merchant, and Mechanick, not to be found in any other.

In consequence of a new arrangement it is particularly requested that alterations in firms, new connections in business, removals, &c. be sent as soon as they take place, to No. 13 South Second street, that they may appear immediately; to which annual subscribers can have access free of expense.

Letters must be left at the Post-Office within the time specified, to insure their going in the Mail of the day: and Newspapers half an hour before that time. As there are several places of the same name, in the United States, it is necessary that the directions should be particular; the States should be distinguished, and when it might otherwise be doubtful, the Counties. When letters are not for a Post-town, the nearest Post-town ought to be mentioned.

The Office is open daily, from sunrise to sunset; except on Sundays, the Fourth of July, and Christmas day, when it is open from 8 to 9 o'clock, A. M. and from 2 to 3 o'clock, P. M.

Persons wishing to pay postage when the office is shut, can enclose the money with the letter, directed to "The Post-Office." Those who keep accounts with the Carriers, or Office, will please to enclose the letter directed in the same manner, with a request that the postage be charged to their account.

All notes, or letters, deposited in this Office, directed to any part of the City this side of Broad street, and to the populous parts of the Northern Liberties and Southwark, will be carried out three times a day, viz. at 8 A. M. 1 P. M. and before sunset in the afternoon.

AT the request of a number of our Subscribers, we republish by permission of RICHARD BACHE, Esq. the procedures with respect to LANDLORD and TENANT, from his "Manual of a Pennsylvania Justice of the Peace."

LANDLORD AND TENANT LAW.

The only direct mode of trying the title to real estate in Pennsylvania, is by ejectment; and even where the title was undisputed, an ejectment was, also, the only mode of obtaining the possession of real estate, until the year 1772, when an act of assembly was passed, to prevent the necessity of resorting to a process so expensive and dilatory, in cases arising between landlord and tenant. The preamble thus states the motive of the legislature in passing the act.—“And whereas it frequently happens within this province, that lessees or tenants for years, or at will, often hold over the tenements to them devised after the determination of such leases, and although such lessees and tenants have been required to deliver up the tenements to the landlord or lessor, who had occasion to dwell in his own house, or give, grant or demise the same to another, yet they have most unjustly refused so to do, and have obliged the lessors or landlords, at a great expense, to bring ejectments against their tenants, and by the delays incident to law proceedings, have kept the owner of the house at law, and out of possession, several years.”

“For preventing, therefore, such unjust practises,” a remedy was provided in the following words.

“Be it further enacted, That where any person or persons in this province, having leased or demised any lands or tenements to any person or persons for a term of one or more years, at will, paying certain rents, and he or they, or his or their heirs or assigns, shall be desirous upon the determination of the lease to have again and re-possess his or their estate so demised, and for that purpose shall demand and require his or their lessee or tenant to remove from and leave the same, if the lessee or tenant shall refuse to comply therewith, in three months after such request to him made, it shall and may be lawful to and for such lessor or lessors, his or their heirs and assigns, to complain thereof, to any two justices of the city, town or county, where the demised premises are situate, and upon due proof made before the said justices, that the said lessor or lessors had been quietly and peaceably possessed of the lands or tenements so demanded to be delivered up, that he or they demised the same, under certain rents, to the then tenant in possession, or some person or persons under whom such tenant claims, or came into possession, and that the term for which the same was demised is fully ended, that then, and in such case, it shall and may be lawful for the said two justices, to whom complaint shall be made as aforesaid, and they are hereby enjoined and required forthwith to issue their warrant, in nature of a summons, directed to the sheriff of the county, thereby commanding the sheriff to summon twelve substantial freeholders to appear before the said justices, within four days next after issuing the same summons, and also to summon the lessee or tenant, or other person claiming or coming into possession under the said lessee or tenant, at the same time to appear before them, the said justices and freeholders, to shew cause, if any he has, why restitution of the possession of the demised premises should not be forthwith made to such lessor or lessors, his or their heirs or assigns; and if, upon hearing the parties, or in case of the tenant's, or other persons claiming or coming into possession under the said lessee or tenant, neglect to appear, after being summoned as aforesaid, it shall appear to the said justices and freeholders, that the lessor or lessors had been possessed of the lands or tenements in question, that he or they had demised the same for a term of years, or at will, to the person in possession or some other under whom he or she claims or came into possession, at a certain yearly or other rent, and that the term is fully ended, that demand had been made of the lessee, or other person in possession as aforesaid, to leave the premises three months before such application to the said justices, that then, and in every such case, it shall and may be lawful for the said two justices to make a record of such finding by them, the said justices and freeholders, and the said freeholders shall assess such damages as they think right against the tenant, or other person in possession as aforesaid, for the unjust detention of the demised premises, for which damages, and reasonable costs, judgment shall be entered by the said justices, which judgment shall be final and conclusive to the parties, and upon which the said justices shall, and they are hereby enjoined and required to issue their warrant, under their hands and seals, directed to the sheriff of the county, commanding him forthwith to deliver to the lessor or lessors, his or their heirs or assigns, full possession of the demised premises aforesaid, and to levy the costs, taxed by the justices, and damages, so by the freeholders aforesaid assessed, of the goods and chattels of the lessee or tenant, or other person in possession as aforesaid, any law, custom or usage, to the contrary notwithstanding."

The remedy thus, generally, supplied in favour of landlords, is still, however, qualified so as to preclude the justices from proceeding to determine a question of title to the estate, by the following proviso :

"Provided always, nevertheless, That if the tenant shall alledge that the title to the lands and tenements in question is disputed, and claimed by some other person or persons, whom he shall name, in virtue of a right or title accrued or happening since the commencement of the lease, so as aforesaid made to him, by descent, deed, or from or under the last will of the lessor, and if thereupon the person so claiming shall forthwith, or upon a summons, immediately to be issued by the said justices, returnable in six days next following, before them appear, and on oath or affirmation, to be by the said justices administered, declare that he verily believes that he is entitled to the premises in dispute, and shall, with one or more sufficient sureties, be come bound by recognizance in the sum of one hundred pounds to the lessor or lessors, his or their heirs or assigns, to prosecute his claim at the next court of common pleas to be held for the county where the said lands and tenements shall be, that then, and in such case, and not otherwise, the said justices shall forbear to give the said judgment. Provided also, That if the said claim shall not be prosecuted, according to the true intent and meaning of the said recognizance, it shall be forfeited to the use of the lessor or landlord, and the justices aforesaid shall proceed to give judgment, and cause the lands and tenements aforesaid to be delivered to him in the manner herein before enjoined and directed."

With this view of the express provisions, we may connect the practical operation of the law, under these considerations.

1st. To what cases the remedy applies

2d. In what manner the remedy must be pursued.

3d And what is the nature of the judgment and execution.

1st. To what cases the remedy applies.

1stly. There must have been a contract, express, or implied, in the nature of a lease, by which the party in possession originally became tenant of the estate upon payment of a certain yearly or other rent. Such a tenancy may exist on a writing, or by parol; and it may be a tenancy for years or at will. It is provided, however, by an act of assembly, "that all leases, estates, interests of freehold, or term of years, or any uncertain interest, of, in, or out of any messuages, manors, lauds, tenements or hereditaments, made or created by livery and seisin only, or by parol, and not put in writing, and signed by the parties so making or creating the same, or their agents, thereunto lawfully authorised by writing, shall have the force and effect of leases or estates at will only, and shall not, either in law or equity, be deemed or taken to have any force or effect, any consideration for making any such parol leases or estates, or any former law or usage to the contrary, notwithstanding; except, nevertheless, all leases not exceeding the term of three years from the making thereof: And moreover, that no leases, estates or interests, either of freehold, or term of years, or any uncertain interest, of, in, to or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall, at any time after the said tenth day of April, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-two, be assigned, granted or surrendered, unless it be by deed or note, in writing, signed by the party so assigning, granting or surrendering the same, or their agents, thereto lawfully authorised by writing, or by act and operation of law."

2dly. The lease, or tenancy for years, must have expired; or in the case of a tenancy at will, the lessor must be desirous to terminate it.

3dly. The lessor, his heirs, or assigns, must have demanded and required his lessee or tenant, or the person actually in possession under such lesse or tenant, to remove from and leave the premises.

4thly. The lessee, or tenant, must have refused to comply with such request for three months after it was made.

From this view of the circumstances, under which the summary remedy is granted to a lessor to recover possession of his estate, it is obvious that the regularity of the notice to quit, will be essential to the efficacy of all the subsequent proceedings. It is proper, therefore, to consider more particularly (1st.) the form and service of the notice; (2d.) the time allowed for removal after notice; and (3d.) the effect of waving the notice.

(1st.) The form and service of the notice to quit.

The notice should state the nature of the pre-existing lease; should describe the premises leased; should specify, when the lease terminated, or will terminate; should declare the lessor's desire to have again and re-possess the premises; and should demand and require the tenant in possession to remove from and leave the same. It should be directed and delivered to the tenant in possession; or, it should be left for him with some of his family at his usual place of abode on the premises, or elsewhere, if the premises are not occupied as a dwelling place. It should be signed by the lesser ; and for convenience of proof, it should be served in the presence of one or more witnesses, who will do well to affix his name, or their names, to a copy of the notice.*

(2d.) The time allowed for removal, after notice to quit.

By the act it is declared, that "if the lessee or tenant, shall refuse to comply with the notice, in three months after such request to him made," the lessor may institute his complaint before two justices. By the act it is further declared, that (among other things) proof shall be given to the justices "that demand had been made of the lessee, or other person in possession as aforesaid, to leave the premises three months before such application to the said justices." But still a question has arisen, whether the notice must be given during the continuance, and three months before the termination, of the tenancy ; or may be given at any time, after the expiration, as well as during the continuance of the original lease, while the actual possession continues, although the notice cannot be enforced, until the expiration of three months from its date ? The bare words of the act, perhaps, may give some room for the question ; but the context of the law, and

* Form of Notice to Quit.

SIR—Having occupied a certain messuage or tenement, with the appurtenances, belonging to me, situate on the north side of Vine-street (No. —) between Sixth and Seventh-streets, in the township of Penn, for the term of two years, viz. from the first day of January, A. D. 1808, until the first day of January, A. D. 1810, which were demised to you by me for the said term of two years, and which said term expired and terminated on the day and year last aforesaid ; I hereby notify you, that it is my desire to have again and repossess the said premises, and I do therefore hereby demand and require you to leave the same.

R. V.

To J. W.

the principles, which it embraces, seem to afford a satisfactory solution.

It is to be recollected, that as this is a new remedy, it must be strictly pursued; and consequently that to bring any case, within the benefit of the act there must be proof made (among other things) of the termination of the lease, and of three months notice to quit, before application was made to the justices. It must, also, be recollected, that the summary remedy is expressly given in the case of lease at will, as well as in the case of a lease for years; and that what the law does not require, cannot be required in either case by any other authority. Now a tenancy at will, is defined to be an estate, "where lands and tenements are let by one man to another, to have and to hold, at the will of the lessor; and the tenant by force of this lease obtains possession." In the case, therefore, of a lease at will, the lessor may clearly, at any time, give the notice to quit; and three months afterwards, he will be entitled to the benefit of the act. But an estate for years, is defined to be, "a contract for the possession of lands, or tenements, for some determinate period; and it takes place where a man letteth them to another for a certain number of years, agreed upon by the lessor and the lessee enters thereon." If, then, at any time during the continuance of such a lease, a notice to quit is given, what is to prevent the application of the statutory remedy, on proving before the justices, that the term of the lease was fully ended, and that three months had elapsed, since the demand of possession, which is all the statute, in this respect, requires to be proved? The evil recited in the preamble to the twelfth section of the act, is, that it frequently happens "that lessees, or tenants for years, or at will, often hold over the tenements to them demised, after the determination of such leases;" and the case for relief, contemplated by the enacting part of the section, is, where the lessee is desirous "upon the determination of the lease, to have again and repossess his estate so demised;" and is able to prove, "that the term for which the same was demised is fully ended." From these and other expressions, it is inferred, that the legislature meant to provide for the case of a lease determined, according to the original express contract between the parties; and not for the case of a lease, arising by mere operation of law. Thus, in the case of a lease expressly for one year, three months notice to quit, would avail, whenever given, whether given during the year, but not three months before its expiration; or given after the year, when the tenant no longer holds under the lease, but at sufferance. 2 Black. Com. 151.

In case, however, of a lease expressly from year to year (which means, of course, so long as both parties please) notice to quit cannot, it would seem, be enforced during any current year, unless it were given three months previously to the expiration of the preceding year; for the term demised, according to the original contract, cannot be said to be fully ended. But even in this case, it has been said, that the practice in the city of Philadelphia is contrary, though not recognised by any judicial decision.

Having stated this result from an analysis of the act of assembly, it is proper to compare, and to endeavour to reconcile it, with the decisions of our courts, so far as they can be ascertained.

In Shaw v. Smither it appeared, that the plaintiff alledged that he had leased the premises for three months (which, however, the jury found to be for a year) from the 11th of November, 1805; that on the 30th of May, 1806 (above six months after the date of the lease) he gave the defendant notice to quit in three months, which would expire on the 30th of August, 1806; that on the 19th of January, 1807, (five months after the expiration of the notice) he issued process against the defendant; and that on the 31st of January 1807, the jury found, "that Shaw had demised to Smither and his assignees, until the end and term of one year, or more; and that the said term is fully ended." On this finding of facts, an opinion was given by a highly respectable authority, as a guide to the decision of the justices, on the question, whether process for the restitution of possession to the plaintiff should issue? The substance of the opinion was this:—

“ A lease until the end or term of one year, or more, is a lease absolutely for one year determinable on the expiration thereof by either party. The year, in the present case, consequently expired on the 11th of November, 1806. The notice to quit, which is dated the 31st of May, 1806, requires a removal in three months after the date; there is a removal during the actual continuance of the demise, or several months before the expiration of the year. The notice is, therefore, clearly illegal and void. As Shaw has not determined the lease of Smither, according to the terms of the contract, Smither legally became tenant of the premises for a second year, which will expire on the 11th of November, 1807; and Shaw, to evict him under the act of assembly, should give him notice to quit, at least, three months before the 11th of November. The finding by the jury, that the term is fully ended, is a false conclusion, and repugnant to their previous finding, that the lease was for a year or more. They have stated the facts; but they have drawn an improper and illegal inference from them. Upon the whole, my present opinion is, that Smither remains, on legal principles, the tenant of the premises; and that no writ of restitution should be issued against him, by the Justices, who held the inquisition.*

On this case, it is only necessary to make a few remarks, in order to establish its consistency with the construction, which we have given to the Act of Assembly, 1st. There was an express lease for a year or more. 2d. The notice required the tenant to quit the premises during the actual continuance of his lease. 3d. The notice given was illegal and void. 4th. The notice to be legal and valid, upon an express lease for a year, or more, must be given at least three months before the expiration of the current year.

* It will not, it is hoped, be deemed improper to observe, that the opinion here cited, has been considered and sanctioned by a respectable judge.

In the case of Brown v. Vanhorn, it appeared, that the defendant held under a parol lease, from year to year, during will; and it was determined, that the notice to quit must in such case, be given three months before the expiration of the current year; conformably to the construction already stated.

In the case of Baggs, administrator of Calbraith v. Black, the question was incidentally discussed, but not expressly decided. It was, however, the case of a lease to hold from year to year, during the pleasure of the landlord; and the counsel for the defendant argued on the authority of Brown v. Vanhorn, (Ante 209,) that the notice to quit must be given three months before the expiration of the current year; but the counsel for the plaintiff answered, that it had been repeatedly held, that notice was sufficient if given any time before the end of the year, provided it was three months before the application to the Justices. As the court, in deciding the case, went upon the validity of an old notice to quit, which the defendant contended was waved, the authority will be applied more particularly to another part of our subject.

3d. The effect of waving the notice.

The lessor, who has given regular notice may, undoubtedly, wave it; but he must do so either expressly, or by acts, from which it may be fairly inferred. In either case, the tenancy will be restored to the footing of the original contract, and if the lessor is desirous of removing the tenant, he must proceed by giving a new notice.

But it has been adjudged, that notice to quit at the end of a certain year, is not waved by the landlords' permitting the tenant to remain in possession an entire year after the expiration of the notice, notwithstanding the tenant held by an improving lease; that is, to clear and fence the land and pay the taxes in lieu of rent.

2d. In what manner the remedy must be pursued.

When three months have expired from the date of the notice to quit, the lessor, his heirs, or assigns may complain to any two justices of the city, town or county, where the demised premises are situated; and in doing so, the following course should be observed:

1st. The complaint should be in writing, addressed to the two justices, and should set forth all the essential facts; to wit: the previous peaceable possession of the lessor; the lease written, or parol, to the lessee; the termination of the lease; the notice to quit; and the lapse of three months since notice was given.*

 Form of a complaint.*

To A. B and C. D. Justices of the Peace in and for the county of Philadelphia.

The complaint of R. V. most respectfully sets forth; that she is owner of a certain messuage or tenement, with the appurtenances, situate on the north side of Vine street (No. —) between Sixth and Seventh streets, in the township of Penn, and was in possession thereof on the first day of January, A. D. 1808, at which time she demised the said premises to a certain J. W. by a written lease bearing date the day and year aforesaid, for the full term of two years from that day, which said term was fully ended on the first day of January, A. D. 1810. The said R. V. being desirous upon the determination of the said lease, to have again and repossess her said estate, for that purpose she did, on the first day of February last past, demand and require the said J. W. to remove from and leave the same, and that the said J. W. hath hitherto refused and still does refuse, to comply therewith; that three months having elapsed since the service of the said notice, she makes this her complaint, that such proceedings 2dly. The lessor must, in the first instance, support his complaint before the justices, by proof of all the facts therein alleged.

3dly. On such complaint and proof, the Justices must forthwith issue their warrant, in nature of a summons, directed to the sheriff to summon twelve substantial freeholders to appear before the Justices within four days next after issuing the same summons; and, also, to summon the lessee, or tenant, or other person claiming or coming into possession, under such lessee or tenant, at the same time to appear before the Justices and freeholders to shew cause, if any he has, why restitution of the demised premises should not be forthwith made to the lessor, his heirs, or assigns. It has been adjudged, that four days, inclusive of the day of warrant and return, will be a sufficient notice within this provision of the act.

4thly. The sheriff must make return of the warrant at the time and place appointed by the Justices, when it is material to consider the next step to be taken. First. In trying the merits of the complaint; and, Second. In suspending the judgment upon an allegation of adverse title.

First As to trying the merits of the complaint.

If the parties appear on the return of the warrant, or if the tenant in possession neglects to appear, after being summoned, the freeholders must be qualified, upon oath or affirmation, that they will well and truly inquire of and concerning the premises in the precept mentioned, and asses such damages (if any) as the complainant has sustained thereby. The parties, their counsel and witnesses must be heard, in the same manner, as on trial of may be taken by you, as are directed by the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided.

causes in a court. The act requiring that the facts shall appear to the said Justices and freeholders, the verdict, or inquest of the principal question, must be taken and found by the Justices as well as the freeholders; and then the Justices must make a record of the finding; but the damages are to be asserted by the freeholders alone. In general, the measure of the damages is a reasonable rent for the premises; but the inquest may justly encrease the amount, in particular cases, where there has been a vexatious and injurious refusal to deliver up the possession, after notice to quit.

Second As to suspending the judgment upon an allegation of adverse title.

After the finding of the jury, however, judgment must be suspended, in the case of a controverted title under the following regulations.

The title must be disputed and claimed by some other person than the lessor, and that person must be named by the tenant, at the return of the warrant.

The title so alledged must be disputed and claimed by the person named, in virtue of a right accrued, or happened, since the commencement of the lease, by descent, deed, or from or under the last Will of the lessor.

Upon this allegation being made, if the claimant is present, he shall be forthwith qualified; or, if he is absent, he shall be immediately summoned by the Justices to appear before them in six days next following, and shall then be qualified, on oath, or affirmation, to be administered by the Justices, that he verily believes that he is entitled to the premises in dispute.

The claimant must, also, at the time of his being so qualified, become bound, with one or more sufficient sureties, by recognizance, in the sum of 100*l.* to the lessor, his heirs, or assigns, to prosecute his claim at the next court of Common Pleas, to be held for the county where the premises shall be.

In such case, and not otherwise, the Justices shall forbear to give judgment. The proceedings, however, are not annulled, but only suspended. For, if the claim of title shall not be prosecuted, according to the true intent and meaning of the recognizance, the recognizance shall not only be forfeited, but the Justices shall proceed to give judgment, and to cause restitution to be made, upon the finding of the jury, without any new process. If the claim is not entered at the next court of Common Pleas; or if it is discontinued, or non-suited, after entering it; or if judgment is given against it; the recognizance will be forfeited, and a warrant of restitution must be granted by the Justices.

3d. The nature and effect of the Judgment and Execution.

When the inquest have found, and the Justices have recorded the truth of the complaint, and further proceedings are not suspended by the suggestion of an adverse title, judgment must be entered by the Justices for damages, and reasonable costs, to be taxed by the Justices.

On this judgment, the Justices must issue their warrant, under their hands and seals to the sheriff of the county, commanding him forthwith to deliver to the lessor, his heirs, or assigns, full possession of the demised premises; and to levy the costs, and damages; of the goods and chattles of the lessee, or tenant, or other person in possession.

By the act, it is declared, that the judgment entered by the Justices, shall be final and conclusive to the parties; and, accordingly, it has often been decided, that a certiorari does not operate as a supersedeas, to prevent, or to discontinue, process of restitution, after judgment entered for the lessor. 4 Dallas' Reports, 214.
